the car was well received by critics, with car and driver magazine describing it as "the most striking-looking and fastest ferrari ever made." the car won the world car of the year award in 1992, and was honored with the car magazine "lemon of the year" award in 1995. the f40 was the first ferrari to use a steel roof structure and was the first ferrari to feature an all-black body. a total of 14 f40s were produced, of which three were completed in the grey livery with black roof. this is one of the first, and the only, of the three cars to be completed in a two-tone pink and black exterior. ferrari's president luca di montezemolo later announced the f40's successor would be the ferrari 599, but due to the change in ownership it was never produced. the car's proportions are similar to the ferrari 288 gto, but with a more dramatic rear end. the f40 has a significant rear wing. its stance is generally less low than the 288 gto. the f40 had a total power of 562 ps (424 kw) at 8,250 rpm and torque of 532 lb·ft (725 n·m) at 6,500 rpm. the car's top speed is over 207 mph. typically, the ferrari 488 is an extremely powerful and potent machine. however, under the gt3 evo 2020 rules, it is also required to have a minimum power output of 470 horsepower and a minimum of 300kg of downforce. thats nearly 100hp less than the current 488 gt3, even though the new car has an even wider rear wing and a slightly larger diffuser to compensate for the loss of downforce. it should be noted that the 488 gt3 evo can also run gt3/gt4 simulation rulesets which provide an even greater level of grip and traction, but are not part of the standard 488 gt3 evo 2020 package.
